KEZBSOCIALOFFICE17

In this multicultural age, a new economy fuels the corporate world. It's social capital. Relationships and networks, not individuals, make for an inimitable competitive edge. It is this power of formal and informal networks at the workplace that the Social Office from Godrej Interio aims to harness by creating casual, uninhibited spaces that make employees feel at home, build a culture of choice at the workplace and synergize the aspirations of multiple generations.

Employees need to be able to focus as a team or from the refuge of a cosy private space. Reject the stereotyped correlation between private cabins and serious work. Intersperse the office with flexible settings so that people can immerse themselves in their work however they want, wherever they want.

Being interconnected requires tapping into openings for meaningful interactions. Welcoming a visitor, planned team meetings, ad hoc brainstorming sessions and serendipitous encounters with other teams are all opportunities for free flow of ideas, thereby laying the foundation for invaluable connections, both inside and outside the organization.
